

Livingston Legacy Series

Journalism: Past, Present, and Future

Wednesday, April 21, 2010

7:00-9:00 PM

Livingston Student Center, Room 201

Panelists include:

Jerome Aumente, Distinguished Professor Emeritus, Special Counselor to the Dean of the School of Communication and Information and head of the Livingston College Journalism and Urban Communications Department

Roger Cohen, Professor Emeritus and former Acting Dean of the School of Communication and Information. Pioneer of campus-wide radio and television production curriculum at Rutgers

Jay Miller, former professor, Livingston College Journalism and Urban Communications Department and Professor and Current Chair, Communication Studies and Theatre, Ursinus College, Collegeville, PA

John O'Brien, Executive Director, New Jersey Press Association

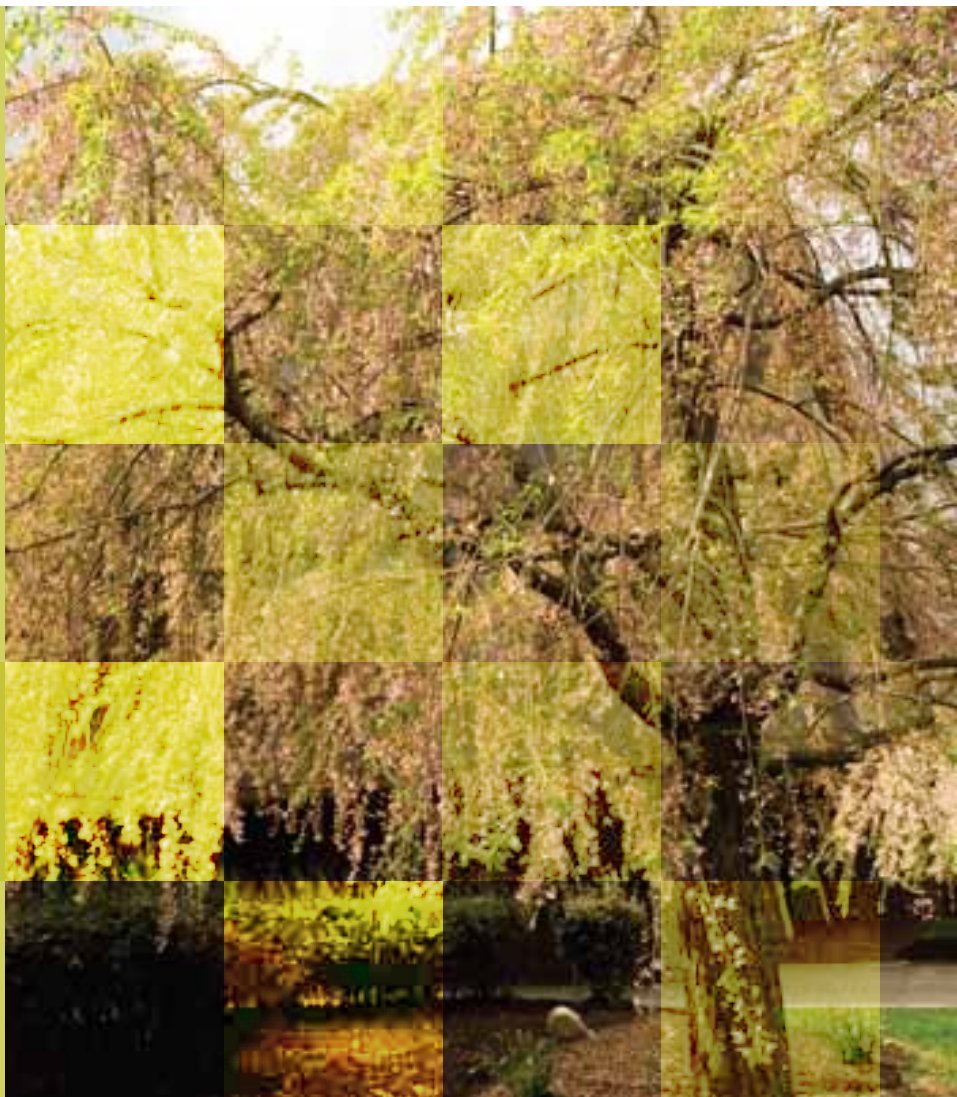

Barry Orton, former professor, Livingston College Journalism and Urban Communications Department and current Professor of Telecommunications, University of Wisconsin-Madison

John V. Pavlik, Director, Journalism Resources Institute; Chair, Department of Journalism and Media Studies; Board of Directors, New Jersey Press Association

Jorge Reina Schemet, Dean, Rutgers School of Communication and Information

Jim Simon, Professor of Journalism, Fairfield University and journalism student at Livingston College (1973-1977)

Robert W. Snyder, Associate Professor and Director of Journalism and Media Studies, Rutgers-Newark and journalism student at Livingston College (1973-1977)

Refreshments will be served

Sponsored by the Livingston Alumni Association, School of Communication and Information Alumni Association, and Livingston Campus Dean

